ABOUT JETWAVE X

JetWave X is a next-generation, multi-network-ready satellite communications system designed to deliver seamless, high-performance connectivity in flight. It connects effortlessly to the proven Inmarsat Global Xpress network and is fully prepared for the upcoming ViaSat-3 network launching in 2026, as well as future Ka-band satellite constellations.

What sets JetWave X apart is its ability to automatically switch between networks and services, ensuring you always benefit from the best available connection and most competitive rates. It's the only system ready to connect to ViaSat-3 from Day One, giving you uninterrupted, high-quality connectivity wherever you fly.

JetWave X is built for quality, continuity, and future-proof performance — making it the smart choice for connected aircraft.
